STATE ESTABLISHES TRACHOMA HOSPITAL

TO BE LOCATED AT ROLLA—OPENS TUESDAY

CAUSES MUCH BLINDNESS

According to Letter Received by Dr. C. P. Fryer, Trachoma is Dangerous Eye Disease

Dr. C. P. Fryer, deputy state health commissioner, has received the following letter from Cortez F. Enloe, state health commissioner:

"Dear Doctor:

"The Trachoma Hospital located at Rolla, Mo., will be opened by the United States Public Health Service in co-operation with the state board of health on July 21, 1923, and it is hoped that you will be present at this time to help commemorate the occasion.

"The Missouri Commission for the Blind is very much enthused in this trachoma eradication campaign and have kindly offered to render every assistance possible.

"This hospital as you know is opened for the purpose of curing trachoma, which is the cause of twenty per cent of the blindness, now pensioned by the state.

"We consider the purposes for which this hospital has been instituted of utmost importance and concern to all patriotic citizens and with the proper co-operation of the state and county officials in getting the victims of this disease promptly hospitalized, we promise to contend a vast percentage of the cause of blindness in our state and thereby either directly or indirectly, save our taxpayers many dollars now being paid for preventable blindness."

An enclosed circular gave the following information for patients who apply for treatment at the hospital:

"The hospital is usually crowded. Write to find out if there is to be a vacancy for you. State whether you are a man or woman and give your age.

"Bring at least two (2 changes of stockings, underwear and shirts or dresses.) You will be required to keep yourself and your clothing clean.

"Laundry work cannot be done in the hospital, as there is no room for it there. It must be arranged for outside at the expense of the patient.

"Bring your railroad fare with you, as not patient is admitted unless he has trachoma and the medical officer in charge deems treatment necessary.

"All patients who enter the hospital are required to do their part in keeping the hospital clean and orderly and obeying the rules.

"When you come bring with you the letter you received from the medical officer in charge.

"Children must have written consent of parents before being admitted to the hospital."

CHRISTIAN CHURCH RALLY DAY SUNDAY

AIM TO HAVE ONE THOUSAND ATTEND SUNDAY SCHOOL

DEFINITE GOALS ASSIGNED

"What's the Matter With Our Schools" to be Subject of Sunday Night Sermon

The First Christian Church will have a "Rally Day" Sunday. An attendance of 1,000 in the entire school is the goal set for Sunday.

All departments and classes have been assigned definite goals of attendance to work to and many of these have already signed up their full quotas, which are as follows: Elementary department, 180; Young people's department, 135; College Class, 350; Women's classes, 150 and men's class, 250.

The adult classes are all organized for this special campaign and every effort is being made for a record attendance. The local school has never reached the thousand mark but once, that being at the rally day two years ago. At that time, the men's class had over three thousand in attendance.

There will be a special "whooping cough" class. Mothers who have children with the whooping cough will bring them to the home of Loren Schnabel on East Fourth street. Conveyances will be provided for all old people who cannot walk to the church.

The program will begin at 9:30 o'clock in the main school with an orchestra program under the direction of Loren Schnabel. The men's class will meet in the I. O. O. F. Hall and the College Class in the Electric theater. The program for these two classes will start at 9 o'clock.

The men's class is divided into five groups and the captains are A. L. Nash, Marion F. Smith, Fred Miller, W. L. Rhodes and Will Trullinger. A banner goes to the group having the largest number present and the most men enrolled.

The morning service will be continuous one and will be dismissed at 11:30 o'clock.

At 8 o'clock Sunday night, the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass will preach another one of the series of sermons on the general subject, "What's the matter?" The subject Sunday night will be "What's the matter with our schools?"

A number of questionnaires have been sent out to representative persons. The following questions were asked: What do you believe to be the greatest weakness in our public school system, state or national? What is the greatest need of the Maryville schools? Should there be a better co-operation of schools and churches, and if so, how can this be developed? In your judgment, what place should the Bible have in our public school life? Should an active Christian profession be one of the requirements of a public school teacher, or is a good moral character enough?

These answers to these questions will form the basis of the sermon Sunday night.

OLDER GIRLS GIVE HELD TO MOTHER

MRS. GRACE BEAN IN CHARGE OF WORK IN COUNTY

MAKES BETTER CITIZENS

Little Mothers' Clubs Help Babies Grow Healthy, Strong, Self-Supporting and Happy

Mrs. Grace Bean of the County Health Department gave a second lecture to the Little Mothers' Club at Graham yesterday afternoon. Two more members enrolled in this club, making a total membership of eleven girls. She also instructed a class of twelve women in bedside care.

Mrs. Bean was in Conception this morning and lectured to the Little Mothers' Club there. Nine girls are enrolled in this club. This afternoon, she will go to Harmony to instruct a class in bedside care.

There are three classes in bedside care organized in Nodaway County at present. These are at Harmony, Skidmore and Graham. There are two Little Mothers' Clubs in the County, one at Graham and the other at Conception. Mrs. Alva Hunt is local worker for the bedside class at Harmony, and Mrs. Raymond Geyer is in charge of the work at Graham.

The Little Mothers' Clubs aim to enable older girls to be of practical help to their mothers in the proper and intelligent care of the younger brothers and sisters.

The clubs intend to help the baby grow healthy and strong, so that he may be an independent, self-supporting, self-respecting citizen, and a pleasure to himself and to others, instead of a burden.

The clubs also want to give the girl, incidentally, knowledge and principles for the preservation of her own health, and to arouse her interest in community child welfare.

Another purpose of these Little Mothers' Clubs, Mrs. Bean said, is to lead the girl to realize that there is more to be known when the actual care of the babies is undertaken; to make her realize that scientific knowledge in addition to mother's instinct is needed for the care and training of children.

It is intended that these clubs will reduce child mortality by teaching girls proper care for the children of today and children of the future.

Every girl 12 to 16 years old is eligible to membership, and younger girls may receive the instruction if agreeable with the school teacher or principal and Mrs. Bean of the Conuty Health Department.

Eat Corn and Stay Young

The older you get the more "roastin' ears" you can eat! Sounds like an unreasonable hypothesis but inductive reasoning of evidence just unearthed proves the statement.

In a conversation yesterday Cooper Gooden, an 83-year-old Maryville youth, confessed that he até nine roasting ears for dinner yesterday. After being questioned awhile Mr. Gooden admitted, however, that he didn't eat anything else for this meal. "Just give me the corn on on the cob with plenty of butter and salt and pepper," is all he asks for, he declared.

W. R. Smiley, 74-years-old, a little younger than Mr. Gooden said he didn't eat but six roasting ears for dinner yesterday. But he has hopes of bettering his record.

The young Democrat-Forum reporter, listening to the corn-eating conversation, immediately recalled that he only ate two roasting ears yesterday.

So the evidence at hand proves the original assertion that the older you get the more "roastin' ears" you can eat. And the moral is—"Eat corn and stay young."

KINNAIRD REPORTS MORE CHINCH BUGS

UNUSUAL CASE ON FARM OF FRED SUETTERLIN.

NO SURROUNDING GRAIN

Corn Was Planted in Former Rye Field—Plowed Under This Spring—Bugs Numerous.

An usual case of chinch bugs on the farm of Fred Suetterlin, six miles southeast of Skidmore, is reported by R. A. Kinnaird, county agent.

Mr. Suetterlin had a field of rye that he had used for pasture until late in the spring. He plowed it under and planted it in corn the last week in May. When the corn was plowed the first time, he did not notice any chinch bugs but he saw that the corn was not doing well and that some of the leaves were turning yellow.

Thinking that this was the work of some insect in the ground, he did not pay much attention to the trouble. However, when the corn was plowed over again, the condition was worse and a few days ago, he noticed that the bugs had multiplied in large numbers and were on nearly every stalk.

There was no small grain around. Evidently the rye which he had plowed under was infested with chinch bugs which escaped Suetterlin's notice, and as the ground was plowed shallow, some of the chinch bugs were able to live under the rye and crawled out on the corn when it was big enough. There they multiplied and now threaten to do serious damage to the entire field.

This is an unusual case, Kinnaird said this morning, because in nearly all cases of chinch bugs reported to the farm bureau office, the bugs have moved in from small grain to the corn field.

There is nothing practical that can be done to get rid of the chinch bugs as they are well established under the leaves of the corn.

MAUGHAN FAILS IN FLIGHT TO COAST

FORCED DOWN WITHIN FOUR HOURS OF GOAL

LEAK IN COOLING TANK

War Department Says Maughan Will Not Be Permitted to Make Another Attempt Until Next Summer

Washington, July 20—Lieut. Russell L. Maughan will not be permitted to make another attempt at a dawn-to-dusk flight across the continent until next summer, it was announced officially at the war department this afternoon.

Rock Springs, Wyo., July 20—Forced down late yesterday afternoon by a new leak in the oil cooling tank of his plane, Lieut. Russell. L. Maughan, within about four hours of his goal, was forced to abandon his attempt to cross the continent between dawn and dusk. He landed at the air mail field at 5:08 o'clock.

A hurried examination by two air mail pilots who were the only men on the field when Maughan descended, convinced teh transcontinental flier it would be impossible to repair the leak in time for him to reach the west coast before dark, and he called off the flight.

Flying several hours behind his contemplated schedule and forcing his plane to the utmost to regain the time lost, Maughan was making 170 miles an hour when forced to land. He had covered the distance from Cheyenne to Rock Springs, 245 miles, in one hour and thirty-two minutes.

The aviator was nearing Green River when the oil tank began leaking badly, he said, resulting in his decision to abandon the flight and return to Rock Springs.

Lieut. Maughan said he felt no ill effects from the nausea that nearly overcame him at Cheyenne as the result of fumes from the escaping oil. He said he felt "fine" and was going to "take a good sleep."

Asked whether he would make another attempt to span the continent between dawn and dusk, Lieutenant Maughan said: That is up to Washington." He added he "naturally" would be "glad to try it again."

Confirmation of the assassination was received by Mexican officials in Jaurez across the border from many sources, it was announced this afternoon.

ENGLAND SENDS REPARATION NOTE

ACCORDING TO SEMI-OFFICIAL INFORMATION TODAY

IN PARIS TOMORROW

French Cabinet Will Consider it Then —Germans Still Insist on Ruhr Evacuation

London, July 20—It was understood in semi-official quarters that the British reparation note was dispatched this afternoon. According to word from Paris it will be considered by the French cabinet tomorrow. The government has observed the greatest secrecy, both as to its contents and delivery. It is known, however, that it re-affirms the suggestion of an international conference to consider the reparations and Ruhr issues.

London, July 20—The German embassy was instructed today to inform the British government that the Berlin government cannot order cessation of passive resistance unless French evacuation is guaranteed by the allies.

Germany suggested that if the June reparation offer of the Berlin government is accepted, mortgages guaranteeing indemnity payments will be delivered to the allies within six weeks. However, Berlin would expect evacuation of the Ruhr by the French and Belgians as soon as the mortgages were delivered.

There was another meeting of the cabinet today and reparations was not again considered.

Premier Stanley Baldwin was hopeful that the draft of the British note would be finished today. There has been continuous exchange of views between the British foreign office and Count De Saint Auliare, French ambassador, for the last few days. The French show more willingness for consideration than at any time since the occupation of the Ruhr last January.

Up to the present, however, the French concessions have not met with the demands made by Germany as conditions for the cessation of passive resistance. Germany wants civil authority restored in the Ruhr and French insist upon remaining in the form of "invisible occupation," until the reparation payments are started.

The continued delay in sending the British note is due to the desire to couch it in such terms that will induce France to make a united reply to the German offer of reparations last June.

HOW KANSAS CITY GOT AHEAD

From the Kansas City Star.

Forty years ago The Star carried this bit of editorial comment:

The question repeatedly is asked: "Why is Kansas City without a park?" No satisfactory answer can be made, but the fact that it hasn't must be acknowledged with chagrin. That the city should have one is admitted by every good citizen. With an urban population approaching the 100,000 mark, there isn't a public breathing spot in the town except such as the streets or an occasional beer garden may afford. A park now is a necessity for any city laying claim to average respectability or progressiveness, and we cannot much longer delay providing ourselves with one without material loss as well as damage to our civic reputation.

It might be assumed that the need was self-evident. But this was not the first time The Star had asked the question about parks. It had been asking about them for the three years of its existence and it was to continue asking for twelve years more and to go through the bitterest sort of fights before the park system was to become anything more than a dream.

Unforutnately, that is the history of all improvements. There always are pullbacks who can see no further ahead than their nose. They want to sit back and have their property improve in value. But they actively oppose all measures for the advantage of the whole city, that will enhance the value of all property.

Kansas City has got where it is only by running over the foes of improvements. If it had listened to their screams it would have stuck in the mud and would be a village today.

Macon has rigged up a rock pile and is offering jobs to vagrants.

Senator Magnus Johnson, the Minnesota farmer, has ploughed quite a furrow across the political field.

Macon has a branch of the International Shoe Factory and so has Kirksville. The Macon branch is a late thing and now has an output of 960 pairs of shoes per day.

The "Greater Missouri Association" has anounced that hereafter October 18 will be set aside as a "A Greater Missouri Day" at which picnics will be held in each of the 114 counties of the state. Better combine the celebration with some other holiday already established. There are more "days" now than the people can keep up with and they can't give up all their time to the celebration of special days even in a good cause.

The election of Magnus Johnson, the farmer-labor candidate to the United States Senate in Minnesota offers something for the administration at Washington and the country at large to think about. There are signs of an approaching storm. It follows on the heels of the election of Dr. Henrik Shipstead last fall on the same party ticket. Minnesota is a republican state made up of the conservative and La Follette branches of that party. Democrats very largely vote for one or the other republican tickets in order to have a voice in the elections. These elections indicate a restless dissatisfaction that is more or less general throughout the country and which the administration at Washington will do well to heed and it also indicates the tremendous power and influence of La Follette in the northern Mississippi Valley states. A few years ago he was thought to be at the end of his political prestige. These Minnesota elecetions ad two more members to the United States Senate who will follow La Follette without question.

Foster to Call a Citizen Conference

(From the Green and White Courier)

A meeting of the Civic citizenship conference was called today by H. A. Foster of the College to discuss the preparatory plans of the body. All superintendents and teacehrs of history and social sciences were asked to report at the meeting.

Henry A. Foster will soon call a conference of the teachers of history and civics and the superintendents of schools of Northwest Missouri for the purpose of discussing the best ways and means of teaching citizenship in the grade and high schools of the state.

This conference will be a part of a general movement inaugurated over the state by the Missouri State Teachers Association in its meeting at Kansas City last fall. It is hoped that this movement will eventuate in the working out of some plan for teaching citizenship that will be more or less uniform over the state and that, will reflect the best judgment and experience of the teachers of the state on this subject. It is expected that this subject of teaching citizenship will be extensively discussed at the State Teachers' Association to be held in St. Louis this fall.

The state superintendent is now sending out to teachers over the state a tentative scheme for teaching the social sciences. This action by the state superintendent is a part of the general movement above referred to, and is supposed to fit into the plans and purposes of the committee appointed by the State Teachers' Association to work out this scheme for teaching practical citizenship.

The date for the conference will be announced upon the return of President Lamkin from California.

SOME FINANCIER!

A neighbor of mine dropped in at meal time recently to tell me of a St. Louis banker friend who met in a self-serve restaurant one of his own employes. As the banker and his clerk sat munching their simple rations, the employe happened to look at his watch.

"Handsome watch that," remarked the banker.

"Yes," replied the clerk, "it is a nice watch. Funny thing about that, too"—and he went on to tell how he happened to buy the watch. It seems that he was short of money at a roadhouse one night and was obliged to cash a check for $40, though he chanced at that moment to have no funds to his credit. The next morning he tried to borrow money to deposit before the check should come in, but was unable to raise more than $5. While wondering what to do, he happened to see the sign of an installment jewelry place. There he bought a $75 watch on a down payment of $5—after proving that he had a good business connection—and a few minutes later he pawned the watch for $40, which he promptly deposited against the check of the night before.

"I should immediately have discharged the fellow," the banker said, in telling the clerk's story. He was too slick a man to have around a bank. But I didn't and now—well, sure enough last week he got away with $23,000."—Fred Kelly in The Nation's Business.

Making the most of these July days!

"Hello Louise, come in, I am so glad you came. I am just dying to show some one my new living room."

"Why Mary, it doesn't look like the same room. I don't see a familiar object in it, but isn't it beautiful? So comfortable and restful looking! When did you do all this? I didn't know you intended getting any new furniture until fall!"

"Yes, you know Frank and I had been planning on getting a new living room suite this fall. We hadn't bought any new furniture for this room since we were married; it was so out of style, such a mixture, too. I really hadn't thought of making any change now, it's so hot that one is content to let things alone as they are.

"I went up town yesterday intending to get one of those card tables that Price's have advertised in their July Furniture Sale at $2.49, and the first thing I saw when I got inside the door was a living room suite just like I wanted and it was on sale at a hundred dollars less than I expected to pay for just such a suite. I got all excited and upon looking further I found this end table and davenport table that just took my eye. I then went upstairs to the drapery department and saw the nicest line of nets and drapery materials that I have ever seen and everything at sale prices, too. They showed me diffrent combinations of draperies and how they could be made up for my windows. I began figuring and found that I could get the room furnished complete, as you see it, for as much as I expected to pay for the living room suite alone. I then called Frank and told him to hurry right over to Price's. He came right over and upon looking over the pieces I had selected readily agreed that we couldn't afford to wait. So we have the room as you now see it. Some transformation, isn't it?"

"It certainly is and I call it good work for a hot day. John and I have been talking of getting a new dining room suite. Did you see anything there that you think I would like?"

"I surely did. They made me wish that I hadn't bought a new dining room suite two years ago. They had the best looking suite in Italian style and it was made in Grand Rapids, too. It consists of a 66-inch buffet, six chairs with tapestry seats and backs, and a large oblong table. I advise you to go as soon as possible and see; I know you'll like it.

"I'll tell you what let' do. I am going back tomorrow morning and get my card table. I forgot all about it yesterday after I got to looking at living room furniture. I'll meet you there at nine o'clock, and I'll show you the dining room suite I had in mind. Good-bye Louise."

"Goodbye Mary, I'll see you tomorrow morning, nine o'clock at Price's."

STUDY THE GARDEN SKY LINE

Matter of Importance Which Adds to or Detracts Materially From Its Beauty.

Carefully planned flower gardens and borders of annuals often seem to lack something and fail to come up to the expectations of their owner and designer. In a great many cases the factor lacking and which is not apparent is diversity of height and variety of "sky line." A monotony of height in the various beds and colonies of flowers, particularly if they are all of fairly low growth, detracts greatly from the general effect and the reason for the lack of a completely satisfactory garden isn't apparent until this feature is considered.

In planting the flower garden this year, and particularly in the arrangement of a long border, study the arrangement so that there will be a fairly tall planting from time to time, or at least a group of three or four tall-growing annuals to break this monotony and give variety.

Some of the annuals best suited for this purpose and which grow easily and quickly from seed are the spider flower (Cleome pungens), the annual small-flowered sunflowers (Helianthus cucumerifolius varieties), not to be confounded with the huge annual sunflowers of old-fashioned gardens; the star-flowered ornamental tobacco, Nicotiana sylvestris, the handsome mallows, Lavatera trimestris; the tall African marigolds; or the plumy celosias or cockscombs.

An occasional planting of some of these tall-growing annuals is needed to break up the uniformity of height of so many of the summer annuals which range around a foot and a half to two feet in height.

When beds of robust-growing annuals such as zinnias and African marigolds are planted, they should be arranged so that some plant of lower growth and suitable coloring will be adjoining to give this variety. The effect is much finer if this detail is watched closely in laying out the garden. Monotony of height as well as monotony of color is to be avoided if the most decorative value is to be secured from the planting.

GET RID OF RUBBISH HEAPS

Systematic Elimination of Refuse Will Make the Task a Comparatively Easy One.

"Health means wealth—clean up for both," is the thought behind the annual Clean Up and Paint Up campaign that every sensible home-owner wages. Behind the thought of clean-up, of course, is the pride that the owner takes in well-kept, well-ordered, attractive appearing premises, but of equal importance is the thought of sanitation—the prevention of disease or possibilities of disease by the elimination of dirt, dark corners, rubbish heaps, etc. Dr. Henry F. Vaughan, commissioner of health, aptly states the thought in his statement that "due to the long-drawn-out cold weather of the winter that has just passed, extreme care must be exercised to avoid the possible spread of disease due to the failure of citizens properly to clean up their homes and premises. A few days of real warm weather will breed more disease than the department of health can stamp out in months. Wherever dirt accumulates flies breed. So quickly do they breed that the first week of hot weather will give us millions of flies where there are today but dozens. The fly is not only a means of personal annoyance, but he is the most dangerous disease germ carrier known. It is absolutely necessary to wage a relentless war on these dreaded pests and their breeding places.—Washington Star.

Garden Products.

Garden products valued at $275 and $40 worth of canned vegetables were grown as a result of the visit of an extension worker to a home in Coconino county, Arizona, according to a report to the United States Department of Agriculture. The extension worker, who was called to the home of a Mexican mother to give advice about food for a young child, noticed that there was a good deal of unused garden ground in the Mexican quarter. She suggested that those living there might raise vegetables to improve their diet, and if they had more than they needed they could can some for winter use. The woman had no money to buy seeds, and knew nothing about canning. Through the efforts of the extension workers, a supply of seeds was obtained and the gardens were planted. A demonstration in canning was arranged with very satisfactory results.

Duty Plainly Up to Citizens.

Accumulations of waste matter in backyards, cellars and vacant lots not only are more dangerous to health than they are in the streets, but cannot be eliminated except by the private citizens themselves.

St. Louis Plans Development.

St. Louis is about to begin an era of physical transformation and development as a result of the approval at a special election of twenty items of municipal bond issues aggregating $87,372,500.

RULED IN FEUDAL SPLENDOR

Patroons in the New Netherlands Resembled the Nobles of the Middle Ages.

Patroons was a popular name applied in colonial days to a special class of settlers in the New Netherlands. These wealthy grantees were privileged to rule their colonies in absolute feudal style, the colonists being bound to them for a certain number of years. Each patroon was entitled to have as his absolute property 16 miles of land along any navigable river, or eight on each shore, and so far inland as convenient. The proprietors were empowered to hold civil and criminal courts, to appoint magistrates and other local officers and, in general, to punish offenders against the law. The settlers were exempt from taxes for ten years, but they had to pay certain rentals. Slavery was introduced, trade and commerce were greatly restricted and manufacturing was prohibited.

As the system tended to debar the wealthy class of individual colonists, the charter was modified in 1640, and extended to any good citizen of the Netherlands. The modified charter limited the period of settlement to three years, removed the prohibition against manufactures, and limited the extent of land grants to four miles along the coasts or rivers and eight miles into the interior. In 1775 the patroons, or "lords of the manor," became merely landed proprietors.

Hotchkin Issues School Catalogue

Business of Maryville Merchant Compares Favorably with Chicago Houses

D. E. Hotchkin, "The School Supply Man," of Maryville has just completed a catalogue of school supplies, equipment and books, that compares most favorably to any of the school supply houses in Chicago. With the possible exception of Kansas City there is no school supply house in the Middlewest that publishes such an extensive catalogue or gives such a service to school teachers as does Mr. Hotchkin.

Mr. Hotchkin had a vision of a school supply house many years before he actually entered the business. He started business in Maryville in the building now occupied by the Western Union Telegraph Company and the express office. The following is taken from the foreward of his catalogue:

"Just eight years ago I started my school supply store, in a small room scarcely one fourth as large as my present location, starting at that time with just a small line of school supplies. My business has grown until today you will find nearly everything that is used in the up-to-date school. In submitting this enlarged and illustrated catalogue for your convenience in mail ordering, I cannot help but feel a little proud of it as you will find here a line of school supplies that you will not find anywhere except in the larger cities.

The catalogue contains thirty-two pages, each 9 by 12 inches and is profusely illustrated and contains one color page. Everything that is possibly needed in the school room is illustrated and described in the catalogue. The book was printed by the Maco Print Shop of the Democrat-Forum, and Mr. Hotchkin said this morning that it was, without question, the best job of printing that he has ever secured anywhere. C. M. Shelton, manager of the Maco supervised the printing of the catalogue.

Glaring Lights A Road Danger

B. H. Piepmeier, Engineer Missouri Highway Commission Urges Lights be Dimmed

One of the most glaring faults of thoughtless drivers at night is the failure to dim their headlights upon the approach of vehicles from the opposite direction, says B. H. Piepmeier of the Missouri Highway Commission. Especially on narrow country roads are the glaring headlights a menace to safety. A driver should dim his lights, even if he finds the other driver does not, for it is safer when one sees where he is going than when both are blinded.

On the lighted streets of the city there is no necessity for using the full headlights. With headlights dimmed and rear light on, all the light needed is provided, and one of the conditions for safety is assured.

If every driver of a vehicle on the street or the highway will observe strictly the rule that the car on the right has the right of way, many collisions will be avoided. An official of the American Automobile Association says, "The rule of the road, both in the city and in the open country, is that the driver on the right has the right of way, and there should be a severe punishment for any person who violates that rule."

For the selfish driver who when passing another car takes more than his share of the available roadway, the condemnation given to the highwaymen of old is his just due. His reckless disregard of the rights and safety of others has given him a most appropriate name. The reckless drivers are a small minority in Missouri, but they should be made by public opinion, if not by law, to conform to those reasonable rules of the road that experience proves are necessary for safety.

The Secretary of State, Charles U. Becker, Jefferson City, Mo., will furnish upon request free a copy of the "Motor Vehicle Laws of Missouri" which give in detail all the rules and regulations governing the registration transfer, operation and sale of motor vehicles in Missouri. Everyone who owns or operates an automobile within the State should be thoroughly familiar with the laws governing motor vehicles.

Hyslop Mistaken Says Elmo Paper

(Elm Register.)

Captain Charles Hyslop has an entertaining article in the Democrat-Forum of Thursday, July 12, giving the history of the Maryville Baptist church, which he says was organized May 29, 1870, and contained eighteen members eight brethern and ten sisters.

A. G. Castillo of Elmo has in possession a document dated November 3, 1854, which is an abstract of principles or confession of faith and is signed by thirteen members, among them being the father and mother of Mr. Castillo. As a matter of curiosity the names of the signers are given: Isaac H. Graham, Rebecca H. Graham, Mary J. Graham, Isaac Castillo, Malinda Castillo, William Neal, Mary Neal, Elizabeth Irwin, Elizabeth Ray (formerly House), William Norton, Doreas Norton and George Norton.

It will be noticed that the name Mary J. Graham, after whom Maryville was named, is signed to the article.

So it will be seen that there was a Baptist church in Maryville as early as November, 1854, but doubtless it went down during the stress of the Civil War the same as other churches did.

City Council Passes Paving Resolutions

Protests to Porposed Paving Project Must Be Filed Within Ten Days After Last Publication.

The three paving resolutions, drafted on July 10, were passed at a meeting of the city council this mrning.

Three blocks of paving at the end of West Third street, two blocks on Grand avenue and the unpaved end of West Fourth street are the proposed paving improvements specified in the three resolutions.

The city is liable for only the cost of bridges and culverts; the property owners must pay for the paving and intersections.

The specifications call for a good quality of vitrified block paving brick with a cement base which must consist of one part cement, two parts of sand, four parts of crushed stone with an inch send cushion. The curbings must be five inches wide and eighteen inches deep.

These resolutions will be published for seven times. The first publication, with full details of the proposed project, is in today's issue of the Democrat-Forum.

Protests must be made within ten days after the last publication.

Bethany needs a swimming pool! Swimming during the hot weather has become very popular here, and the swimming holes along Big Creek can hardly accomodate the numerous bathers. Other towns as small as Bethany and many towns much less progressive have some kind of a swimming pool to boast of.A swimming pool was built at Maryville last spring at a cost of $13,965. The firm which owns it is composed of a Maryvillian and his two sons. The project was backed by several business men, and has been a complete success. Recently there were four hundred persons in the pool during the evening. If several merchants and retired farmers would get behind such a proposition, there is no reason why it should not "go over big!" Bethany is well known for its chautauqua, its North Missouri District Fair, its churches, its schools and its newspapers—why not ad a public swimming pool to the list?

Less loafing is known in a town which can boast of a swimming pool!

We noticed this startling headline in a St. Joseph newspaper, "Will seek Dam Location in Colorado River Valley." It does sound bad, but there's truth in it!

How should the driving swing be finished after the ball is hit?

Answered by JIM BARNES

American open champion, 1921; recognized everywhere as one of the greatest golfers in the world. In British open championship, 1922, he finished second, one stroke behind Walter Hagen, the winner.

The most important part of the driving swing is just before the ball is hit. At this point, confidence is essential. After the ball has been hit, however, "swing through" at arm's length, in the direction of the line of flight taken by the ball—after that, nothing matters. Posing at the end of a swing is fine for pictures but it doesn't help to hit the ball.

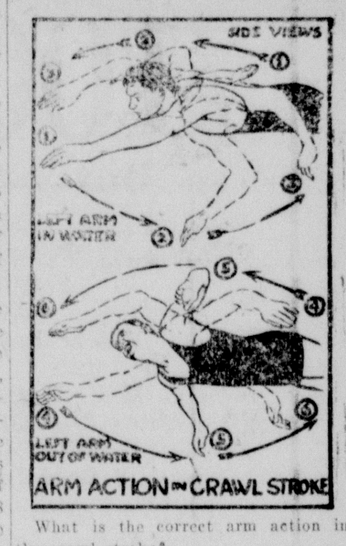
SWIMMING INSTRUCTIONS



What is the correct arm action in the crawl stroke?

Answered by
BILL BACHRACH

Illinois Athletic Club; most famous and successful of all swimming coaches; has turned out champions such as Johnny Weissmuller, world's fastest swimmer; Norman Ross, Sibyl Bauer, Perry McGillivray, Harry Hebner, Arthur Raithel, Bob Skelton, and Mike McDermott.

From the starting position lying flat on the water, face down and both arms extended forward, the left arm is brought downward and backward, sweeping under the body with the elbow bending until the forearm reaches an angle of 45 degrees. The arm is bent so that more surface of the forearm is offered to the water. The pull ends at the hip where the muscles relax as the arm is brought out of the water. The forearm and wrist stay relaxed during the recovery as the arm is carried above the water to the forward position. The action of the right arm is similar. As the left comes out the right starts its pull from the forward position, the hands at all times being equi-distant. The motion is a continuous rotation, there being no break between one complete revolution of the arms and the one that follows.

RUM SMUGGLING ON THE DECLINE

ACCORDING TO BRITISH INVESTIGATING TRAFFIC TO U. S.

HAS TOO MANY HAZARDS

Only Large Powerful Syndicates Now Risking Money in Whisky Smuggling Fleets.

Glasgow, July 20.—The rum running business between foreign countries and the United States is undergoing a slump, it was learned today in connection with the investigation that the British government has been making of the whisky smuggling from English shores into dry America.

Prospects of fortunes being built up by supplying whisky to American bootleggers have dimmed. Those venturesome spirits, who believed they had found a new gold mine, three miles off the American coast, now doubt its value. The risks, which attend the business, is too great for most of them. Only highly organized gambling syndicates are now willing to sink money in whisky fleets off the coast. The British government is doing all possible to place obstacles in the way of the whisky smugglers.

Rock Port Paper Tells of J. W. Raines

Father of H. L. Raines, Who Died in Maryville Sunday, Was Prominent and Influential Citizen.

The following is a portion of an article appearing in this week's Athison County Mail at Rock Port about the death of John W. Raines, father of H. L. Raines, who died here last Sunday:

John W. Raines, prominent figure in the business and political life of Rock Port and Atchison county since 1885, died Sunday shortly after noon at the home of his son, H. L. Raines, in Maryville. The natural deterioration which comes to a man who has lived well up into the eighties brought about his end. For several years he had been in poor health, induced by constant and untiring attention to his business. For about ten days preceding his death he had been suffering from acute dilation of the heart.

In his death there passes from the stage of life's activities a figure which had become such a familiar one on the streets of Rock Port that when he retired from active participation in the Raines Abstract & Loan Co., which he managed many years, it seemed as if all things were awry when he no longer made his methodical way from home to office and back again.

He had held the office of treasurer of Atchison county, to which he was elected on the Republican ticket in part until advancing years caused him 1894, and there was never a township to give way to younger men. caucus or county convention in which he did not take an active and lively John W. Raines was the son of John and Mary Miller Raines. He was born in Lancaster county, Wisconsin, January 3, 1840; died Sunday, July 15, 1923. Hi father died when the son was quite young. He remained at home with his mother until he enlisted in the Union army on June 11, 1862. He was assigned to Co. C, 2nd Wisconsin Infantry. He was in the battle of Bull Run and was wounded in battle of Gainesville on Aug. 28, 1862, and discharged Dec. 31, 1862, because of his wound. In 1863 he was appointed clerk in the provost marshal's office at Prairie Du Chene, Wisconsin, which place he held until the spring of 1865. Leaving that office he was at home until in July, 1866, when he went to the state of Alabama and clerked in the Freedman's Bureau at Huntsville. He was also in the internal revenue service there for more than twelve years, from which position he went into the United States marshal's office as a deputy. He held that job from 1882 to 1885, when he came to Missouri and located in Rock Port.

Here he engaged in the abstract business, which he continued as long as he was active in business life.

Leaves for Colorado

Miss Edith Raines left this morning for Westboro, Mo., where she will visit until tomorrow with Mrs. Clark and Miss Anna Clark. From there she will go to Buffalo Park, Colo., to be with her sister, Miss Theodosia Raines.
